Policy regarding Graduate Student Information on the Web

Effective 4/1/06, graduate students in the department will be listed on a departmentally maintained web page that is available to the world. The goal of this listing is to make the graduate students more visible and easier to contact. A graduate student can choose to have as much or as little information on that page as they prefer. At a minimum, unless a graduate student notifies the computer support staff in writing, the student’s name, area, advisor, and email address will be listed.

Graduate students in the department can still maintain their own web pages under their own account on the server in addition to this departmentally maintained web page. A graduate student can request to have their personal web pages linked from the departmentally maintained web page with graduate student contact information.

On a quarterly basis an email will be sent to all graduate students as a reminder that this information is available to the world with a request to the students to review it and decide whether or not they want to stay listed on that page.

At any time, the graduate student can notify the department in writing of their wish to have their information removed from the departmentally maintained web page. An email to both the Computer Support alias (computer-support) and the graduate advisors’ alias (gradaffairs) will accomplish this.
